INTER-SOCIETY DEBATE.

Athenaeum and Rusk Will Fight Hard This Year—The Contest Will Be Interesting.

The coming inter-society debate between the Athenaeum and Rusk Literary Societies promises to be one of the most interesting and hotly contested debates in many years. Hon. Ira H. Evans, of Austin, offers this year a cash prize of one hundred dollars to be equally divided among those four debaters who will win first places for the intercollegiate debating teams. This debate is one of the most important events of the year, and furnishes the chief means by which the relative strength of the two teams may be determined.

This year's debate will be held as usual in the auditorium on the third Saturday night in January. Each society will be represented by four of its best debaters, who will be chosen by a preliminary contest in each society on the second Saturday night in December. In the past it has been the custom for the Athenaeum to win the honors, and with but few exceptions, win three out of the four places on the intercollegiate teams. This was the case in 1903, 1904 and 1906. In 1905, the Rusk got two places, but one of the Rusk men, Mr. Griffin, withdrew and the first alternate, Mr. Worsham, from the Athenaeum, took his place. The Athenaeum has also usually been successful in landing the best individual debator. Mr. E. Taylor Moore, Jr., won this honor in 1902, W. A. Cock in 1903, and Mr. Alex Pope in 1905 and 1906. Mr. J. P. Luton of the Rusk won it in 1904. But this year conditions are changed. The Athenaeum has lost several of its best debaters. The Rusk, on the other hand, has all of its old debaters back again with the exception of Mr. Edmund Griffin. Thus the Rusk expects to land at least three out of the four places, and also the best individual debator. The Athenaeum is also living in such an expectation.

The question for debate this year as submitted by the faculty committee on forensics and oratory is, "Resolved, That the Suffrage in Texas Cities with Reference to Municipal Affairs, Should Be Restricted to Taxpayers on Real and Personal Property." This question is one which, owing to its application to Texas, should interest every young debator, and be very interesting to the students in general. Among the men from the Athenaeum who have registered for the preliminaries are: John B. Marshall, Robert Haynie, J. C. Danock, J. A. Harley, Luther Nickels, Ireland Graves, B. L. Agerton, J. P. Cox, Jr., E. L. Klett, J. M. Jones, E. L. Harris, R. L. Jones, H. E. Stephenson, D. E. Mayee, Paul Haynes and Brodie Hamilton. This list contains some of the strong debaters and orators in the University. Mr. Marshall won the Ross

Another victory has been added to Texas' already brilliant record against A. & M. For the 12th time have the Crop Growers from College Station been met upon the football field and for the 10th time defeated.

Admittedly outweighing the Longhorns more than ten pounds to the man, the Farmers came with every expectation of repeating their performance of 1902. But their hopes were dashed by an unexpected jar in the shape of the swiftest and prettiest article of football yet displayed on the local field, this with only one possible exception. Save for some fumbling at critical points, which after all did not prove to be costly, the Schenkerites' game was splendid. To be sure there were occasional slips, but on the whole the team work as well as the individual effort was most satisfactory.

The Farmers, although strong and heavy were slow as mud, and could neither pound the Texas line nor circle her ends to advantage; hence they were forced for the most part to content themselves with booting the oval as far as possible away from the danger line. Twice during the game did A. & M. seem to have a chance of scoring, and at one time it appeared to the nervous one that she might even possibly win; but to the clear headed observer of training the result of the game was never in doubt.

The only two Agriculturists whose work deserves mention are Kelly and Hamilton. The former proved himself a good player, although not so good as he has been advertised; his work, though not brilliant, was steady and with the proper support he would have given a better account of himself. Both of these men were handicapped by the defensive game which A. & M. was forced to play most of the time. As it was Kelly carried the ball some 90 yards, while Hamilton's total distance was somewhat less than 25 yards.

Fred Ramsdell was Texas' best oval pusher, although he carried the leather nearly 200 yards. Both McMahon and Hendrickson went over the 100 yard mark, while the former booted the ball more than three times the length of the field. Caldwell and Krahls also covered considerable ground—some 70 yards each; while Adams, although in the game less than fifteen minutes, got half a hundred yards to his credit. The star run of the game was made by Duncan, who got away for a 75 yard clip, and his work at end was up to his usual excellence. Bob Ramsdell did the best work in the line, but the other linemen deserve great credit for the steady, effective playing which they did. Both McMahon and Dyer played excellent games at quarter, and Fink, in spite of his arm, took care of left end well. Every man on the team deserves praise, and Texas can congratulate herself upon having been represented by a team which was a credit to her. And during the last two weeks of the season many were the students who were heard quoting: "I wish that Vandy could play us now."

We do not wish to be understood as saying that we could at any time have beaten Vanderbilt; but we do think that we might upon another try have shaved the former score a trifle. Because there can be no doubt that the team did improve very greatly toward the close of the season. But we are content and with pride point our record of: Played, 10; won, 9; lost, 1; points scored, 201 against our opponents 60.

The schedule for the class games with the coaches of the various teams is as follows:

Freshmen-Sophomore: Tuesday, Dec. 4.
Junior-Senior: Wednesday, Dec. 5.
Winners: Saturday, Dec. 8.
Coaches: Seniors, Caldwell; Juniors, Adams, Fink; Sophomores, Parrish, Mainland; Freshmen, Hamilton.

The next issue of the Texan will contain some comments on these games with their results.

THE CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS.

The American committee of the Y. W. C. A., which has its headquarters in New York City, and the National committee of the Y. W. C. A., with headquarters at Chicago, were in the process of union in New York City on the 5th and 6th. After consolidation the organization is to be called the Young Woman's Christian Association of the United States of America. Immediately following this meeting a convention of the secretaries of the associations of the United States goes into session. This is also in New York City. Our state college secretary, Miss Alice L. Batchelder, left last week to be in attendance upon these meetings. While in New York she will visit Miss Nancy Lee Swann, B. A. '06, a student volunteer from this University. Miss Swann is attending Dr. White's Bible school, preparatory to becoming a missionary in the east. Miss Batchelder will spend the holidays with her home folks at Portsmouth, N. H. She will also visit in Pittsburg before returning to Texas.

The cabinet of the Y. M. C. A. has ordered the purchase of 50 more copies of the Association Hymnal.

Those who failed to hear Prof. Taylor's address Sunday afternoon on the "Force Triangle" were certainly losers. It was simple, practical, interesting, instructive. Smith and Roach sang a duet that held the audience almost spellbound. It is a real treat to attend such meetings.

The Nashville delegation held its monthly meeting on the night before Thanksgiving. It was decided that in addition to the foreign mission work being done, something of a local nature be done. A committee was appointed to study the field in the University and in Austin and report the needs to the organization. This is a worthy move and will, if properly prosecuted, accomplish great good.

Next Sunday the devotional meeting of the Y. M. C. A. will be a musical and free-speech meeting. The music will be varied, consisting of quartets, solos, duets, general singing, etc. Nobody will be allowed to talk longer than four or five minutes. This will be one of the best meetings of the year. Come out and have a pleasant hour, and rest your weary minds. The meeting begins promptly at 3 o'clock.

FREE TO THE PUBLIC.

On account of the Glee Club concert being given on the 6th the date of the Varsity Symphony band's concert will be changed from the 7th to Wednesday December 12.

The programme will be rendered as follows:

Rotan oratorical contest last year, and his chance for a place on the team is good. Mr. Haynie was one of the intercollegiate debaters last year, and his chances this year are equally as good. J. M. Jones and Ireland Graves promise to be strong contestants. There are many other good debaters on this list, but as most of them are new material, it is hard to predict their success. Among the contestants for the preliminaries in the Rusk are: H. L. Yates, J. H. Keen, B. F. Saye, J. E. Vickers, Murray Ramsey, Clarence Kendall, B. E. Satterfield, W. L. Tittle, R. J. Tunentine, J. J. D. Cobb, E. R. Stieler, F. H. Sweet, H. O. Norwood, Pat N. Fahey, J. I. Kircheville, J. J. Strickland, J. T. Brooks, H. L. Davis, H. B. Short, W. D. Smith, M. L. Hankins, R. L. Thompson and J. C. Wilkerson. Many of the best debaters and orators are also included in this list. Mr. Keen ably represented the University last year against Tulane, as did Mr. Cobb against Baylor. Both stand a good show to represent the University in one of her debates this year. Mr. Kircheville won a place last year as alternate on the Texas-Missouri team, and he has an opportunity to win an honor this year. Mr. Kendall won several honors last year in the declamation and oratorical contests, and also showed up well in the debates, but did not win a place on the society team. He stands a good chance this year. Mr. Davis also was on the inter-society team, but lost out in the finals. He also has a good opportunity to represent the Rusk again. What Mr. Strickland's chances may be no one can say. There are many other strong men in the Rusk list, who may spring a surprise on the night of the preliminaries.

The contestants in both literary societies are already working hard, and the preliminaries promise to be almost as interesting as the final battle in the auditorium. The students can rest assured that whoever will be the representatives of the two societies, the final debate will be hotly contested, and the Texas representatives chosen on that night will uphold the debating reputation of the University.

FRESHMEN MEETING.

The Freshman class, in response to a call from President Henderson, assembled in room 44 Friday afternoon, November 30, in a brief business session. The financial condition of the class was discussed together with means for raising money to meet the expenses of the class entertainments. A motion was carried asking the president to appoint a committee of three to arrange for an entertainment to be given during the winter term. The committee appointed is as follows: John McMeans, chairman; O. Armstrong and K. Krahle.

The proceeds of this entertainment are to go to the reimbursement of the funds of the class. The committee appointed to procure class hats made its report and it was accepted. The order for hats has been placed. The necessity of a class reporter for The Texan was discussed and decided upon. Lee G. Carter was elected to fill that office. The lack of enthusiasm and class spirit prevalent among the freshmen was discussed at length, and every loyal member was appointed as a committee of one to see and talk with those who have not been attending class meetings. Every member will be expected to show up in response to the next call from the president.

There being no further business to transact, the class adjourned.

at twenty-five, five thousand four hundred and eighty-eight dollars and three cents.

At Twenty-five a man's "stock" in the legal market is at its highest valuation; after that point is passed, it steadily decreases until at seventy the man is worth only seventeen dollars and thirteen cents.

How much capital is invested in you? Is it "tied up" capital or is it working capital? What rate of dividend are you paying? Are you a "profitable" machine, or are you a piece of junk? According to sound business methods is it better for you, for your folks, for your community, for your state, that you should go on living or that you should fall off the earth, put a considerable amount of capital in circulation, and give place and opportunity to a better and more profitable man? The boldly-cruel question is: "Are you a social parasite, an economic leech?" According to cold and calculating commerce, which is another name for crystallized common sense and practical ability—if you are not paying at least the established rate of interest on the investment in you, you are not deserving to live. Think about it; thou snob in pumps and peg-tops, thou rank stranger to honest toil, and cease to "cut" the man who "works for his living"—look upon the "boy who works his way through" as your superior, for he is such.

Here is a striking case where a part is greater than the whole for, from an "average" of the decisions, one eye is worth five thousand dollars; one leg, fifteen thousand dollars; two legs, twenty-five thousand dollars; one arm, ten thousand dollars; one finger, one thousand and five hundred dollars, and permanent disability, twenty-five thousand dollars. The underlying principle of these valuations is the worth of a man to others. The value of a man to himself can not be estimated—in fact that is unimportant; neither can his value to society as a whole be rated in cash, but it is dollars to doughnuts that his value to himself or to society is absolutely insignificant if somebody would not feel a pecuniary loss in case of his death. The eternal question is: "Are those valuable appliances with which you are equipped paying for themselves?"

THE CHORAL CLUB SHOWS A PHE-NOMINAL GROWTH.

Officers Elected—112 Members.

What promises to be the most popular and enterprising institution in University circles has assumed definite form; the Choral Club, originated but a few weeks since, has established a record for rapidity of organization, definiteness of planning, and energetic execution of plans of which any organization might well be proud. The phenomenal growth of the club, its strength of organization, its enthusiastic readiness for work, all do honor to that quality of its members which in "mere man" would be designated "constructive statesmanship." Those young ladies who took the lead in the matter, and who so energetically gave a definite course to otherwise divergent forces, are to be complimented upon their pluck, their ability to recognize possibilities, and their executive ability, of course, but they are to be commended scarcely more than the young ladies who, with equal ability to see possibilities and with equally enthusiastic willingness for work, composed the membership.

The club elected officers Wednesday afternoon as follows:

Miss Minnie Strickland, president.
Miss Lottie Harris, vice president.
Miss Willie Birge, secretary.
Miss Lena Amsler, treasurer.

A considerable order for music has already been given, in fact the music is expected to arrive tomorrow. Practice under the efficient direction of Mrs. Anna Hazelton Goff will be begun at once.

The total membership is one hundred and twelve, and is composed of the following young ladies:

Willie Birge, Minnie Strickland, Annie Romberg, Ethel Sykes, Mabel Cumings, Willilla Stump, Rosalie Riedel, Lattie Harris, Jesse Stone, Dolly Bell Rutherford, Maie Borden, Camilla LaBatt, Elizabeth Stiles, Elizabeth Oliphant, Mary Kaesyer, Lena Amsler, Katherine Henderson, Hilda Widen, Pearl Cade, Annie Sowell, Helen Knox, Shelley Chilton, Augusta Neilsen, Helen Garrison, Carrie Reaves, Ella Harris, Drew Staggs, Mabel Hull, Marguerite Stuart, Sadie Kell, Marjorie Jarvis, Lillian Lee Storer, Winnie Vickrey, Lois Cook, Christine Horn, Edna McCormick, Mamie Birge, Velma McAfee, Ettie Woolsey, Lois Spears, Louise Spaeth, Dorothy Howell, Mabel Johnson, Margaret Murff, Margaret Slaughter, Myra Peacock, Frankie Steiner, Mary Gooch, Serena Gould, Kate Harris, Jean Mateer, Maude Hart, Nell Whitman, Marie Graham, Louise Evans, Bess Suan, Marie McDonnell, Milda Connolly, Alice Douglass, Kate Cocke, Jenness Fria, Linda Spence, Agnes Kirkland, Elmira Tinnin, Mabel Smith, Lydia Ludwig, Iome Spears, Mary Alice Kelleher, Annie James, Kathleen Corly, Pany Alexander, Irine Seaten, Louise Andrews, Myrtle Young, Blanche Davis, Julia Luker, Janet Dabney, Alline Blocker, Ruth Coleman, Evelyn B. THE FIASCO OF THE FINAL BALL.

A Fungus Growth On the Body Politic.

With the opening days of the winter term, a certain element at the University will begin a political agitation of the student body, or, to be more accurate and definite, the various cliques and clans will marshal their strength and begin the annual campaign of dickering, trading, scheming and wire-pulling looking toward the landing of that luscious and much-coveted political plum known in current history as the presidency of the final ball. Now The Texan has no fault to find with any man for being possessed of an ambition to be a leader, even a political leader, among his fellowmen; we are not possessed of that narrow and supercilious spirit that prompts a smile of scorn, contempt, or incredulity whenever a person is named as a "politician" or whenever an activity is mentioned as "politics;" we take no stock in that Pharisaical spirit that leads one to conclude that the country is going to the demeriton bow-wows, that leads one to preach vociferously against the corruption of modern politics and politicians, but that does not lead one to plunge into the fray to stay the downward course of things, and to wrest the control of public affairs from the hands of corrupt designing and self-interested men. No. We believe that politics is an essential concomitant of religion; we believe that the politician is as necessary and as useful as the preacher; in the true sense, we would denominate them as one and the same: religion and politics as the constituent elements of normal conduct; politicians and preachers as fellow-soldiers of the common good. It is the tainted article, sometimes called politics, and the selfish man posing as a leader, or soldier, that are not to be tolerated—the one to be relegated to the limbo of things frowned upon, the other to be restricted to the narrow sphere of his own miserable existence. In the FINAL BALL and the manner of filling its presidency, as they have been perpetrated on an unsuspecting public for the last few years, we have an excellent opportunity for civic missionary work, an inviting field of battle for the common good.

Now, with balls in general, with the principle that underlies them, with their propriety or non-propriety, we have nothing to do. If the people whose affair the final ball is, if the people who manage it, support it and attend it want to have, and do have, a dance every night in the week throughout the year, it is perfectly all right with us, simply because it is none of our business—it is their own affair, provided always, that they act in their private capacity. But when they assume to act for the University of Texas in the matter, when they arrange for, and carry out, a social function that in its nature, in a civilized country, can only be private—when they palm off a society affair that concerns only about one student in ten as an institution of the student body, as a University enterprise, then as humble, free-born American citizens, as democratic students of the University of Texas, we are concerned, it becomes our business to register an honest protest against such high-handed proceedings. And it is on this ground that The Texan protests against the further existence of the final ball. We do not believe, we can find no reason for believing, that the responsibility for an affair, in which a very limited number are concerned and in which a lesser number participate, should be saddled on the student body as a whole. It is safe to say that not more than three hundred students participate in the ball, but the responsibility for the whole affair is placed upon the whole 1400 of us. Eleven hundred of us have absolutely no interest in the affair; at least six hundred of us believe that the thing would be wrong even as a private affair, and that it is scandalous when foisted on the public, when foisted upon the people of Texas, as a University affair; but each one of the eleven hundred is made equally responsible with each one of the three hundred actual participants, for it. And why? Simply because the self-assumed leaders of polite University society have pulled the wool over our eyes. Under the guise of a popular election, under cover of the excitement attendant thereon, they have incorporated a private social function into the body of our institutions—they are responsible for a fungus growth upon our body-politic. The final ball must be denounced, therefore, as a political anomaly, a social abortion, useful as an instrument to the hand of the social leader-politician, and adored as an institution of perfect proportions by the chap in pumps and peg-tops.

The only authority for the existence of the final ball is a parvenu tradition. Tradition, at best, is a musty and untrustworthy thing; even the longest established tradition, like Liberty, has had many "crimes committed in her name." What of reverence, then, should attach to a parvenu tradition, a tradition established, if established at all, despite and in the face of law and constituted authority? If the thing is wrong, it is wrong, and no tradition can justify it.

The final ball has always been, is, and in its nature must continue to be, a fraternity affair; not because all fraternity and sorority people sanction and support it, but because the great majority of the people who do sanction and support it are fraternity folks. The average "barbarian" would be at home at the affair about as much as he would be at home at a ghost dance on Devil's River or at a high society to-do in the joyous realms of the Sultan of Saba. There are at least three good and sufficient reasons why the typical "barb" is barred from the happy event. His training has not been such as to enable him to thread the mazes of the wobbly waltz; his tastes and desires do not lead him to court the opportunity to perform gymnastics for about twenty miles in linear measure, and for five hours, in time measure, and at the same time be burdened by a dainty bit of flesh and fluff and feathers one hundred and twenty avoirdupois; in the third place, there is an impossible financial gulf fixed for him, an inexplorable hiatus between his bank account and the necessary incidentals. Why then should this typical "barb" be called upon to assume the responsibility for the affair from which he is barred both by taste and circumstance? And why should not the society people whose affair it is bear the responsibility of their own enterprise?

As conditions exist, the great disinterested mass of the students are made to stand responsible for an affair with which they in no sense are concerned; under existing conditions, the people whose affair the final ball is are shirking the responsibility for it by shifting the responsibility to the shoulders of the student body as a whole. The only explanation of this anomalous situation is the presence and persistence of the pseudo-politician—the only remedy for the evil is for this great disinterested element to refuse to elect a president of the final ball; to force the society people—acting in their private capacity—to choose their own officers, and thus to assume the responsibility for their own acts.

What are your sentiments? The Texan invites discussion of the matter.

ification of everyone present. No lit-surprise was manifested when one the speakers declared that a great number of the Philipinos had been Christians for seven hundred years. Undoubtedly some of the natives of the Philippines have found the "Spring of Immortal Youth."

The extempore speakers for the evening were Messrs. Satterfield, Taudy, Hult and Stieler.

In accordance with a provision of the constitution, at the close of the literary program the society went into the election of officers. The following gentlemen were elected as officers for the winning term:

President, J. J. D. Cobb; vice president, H. L. Yates; secretary, M. L.
Hinkins; treasurer, T. H. Shelby, to succeed himself; sergeant-at-arms, J. I.
Kercheville; Texan reporter, Pat N.
Haley; president of the Oratorical Association, J. J. Strickland; treasurer of Oratorical Association, Bob Holliday.
Next Saturday evening in lieu of the regular program the preliminaries to the inter-society debate will be held. Everybody is invited to be present.

REAGAN LITERARY SOCIETY.

By courtesy of the Ashbel Literary Society, the regular meeting of the Reagan Literary Society was held in the Ashbel room, Friday evening, November 30, from 4 to 5. The following new members were taken in; Rebecca Witzer, Mary Kaizer and Miss Parker.
Miss Lowell was chosen editor of that issue of the magazine which the Reagan's are to edit some time next term. It was with regret that both old and new members accepted the resignation of their very able president, Miss Schnell, who was forced to resign because of her many duties in the botany department. Linda Paine was elected president in her stead and Carrie Belle Ster-rett vice president.

After the business meeting, the following interesting program was carried out:

Life of Ibsen—Hermione Mays.
Ibsen's Rank Among Dramatists—
Marion Cartledge.
Reading: "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch"—Carrie Belle Sterrett.

ATHENAEUM.

The Athenaeum Literary Society met last Saturday night. The attendance was not large. The program was discussed with, and after all the business was transacted, the society adjourned.
There will be no program tomorrow night, as the preliminaries for the inter-society will be pulled off. The contest will be interesting, and everybody
cordially invited.
The meeting will be called to order
at 7:30 sharp.

To the Editor:
How often have you tried to read a
this month's magazine in the library?
I suppose it is because the library retains only one copy of McClures', and there are a thousand of us who may wish to read it; but, for one, I rarely get a chance at it. Now, either the library ought to subscribe for several copies, or else the Woman's Building, B.

Hall, Grace Hall, Mrs. Kirby's room, the fraternity houses, the Y. M. C. A. room, or at least some of these places, ought to subscribe, so as to reduce the pressure on the library's one copy. I am no agent; but now is the time to subscribe for 1907.

SUPREME COURT AT THE CLANS-MAN.

The highest local judicial tribunal gave a box party Friday night at "The Clansman." This style most properly befits the learning and dignity of that most august body. The occasion afforded the judges and practicing attorneys of the court, who were in full dress, an opportunity to display their superiority over the ordinary layman, to the people of Austin, as the same is observed in the court room.

The party was composed of Chief Justice DeBogery, Associate Justices
Tipton and Francis, Clerk Kercheville,
Attorney General Burford, Protecting
Lawyers Brown, Burney and Robertson.
When this distinguished body of jurists stepped in the box, continued applause greeted them as evidence of the public's appreciation of their learning and high sense of justice. Words calculated to work a contempt of court and originating in "the peanut," were immediately "squashed" when Chief Justice DeBogery scrutinized the culprits through his "star finder." The associates, Tipton and Francis, assumed a knowing and intelligent appearance, which was very becoming to those distinguished jurists; and could hardly refrain from writing an opinion in the constitutionality of the proclamation
posted on the Cameron House Bulletin Board, which legalized intermarriage of the blacks and whites. Clerk Kercheville, with the good looks typical of this body, though arriving a trifle late—

"Son Hopper," wrote Popper, "your perhaps due to cupid—seemed to enjoy the occasion as well as anyone; with the possible exception of Attorney Robertson. This eminent lawyer, being an ex-slave holder, was better able to appreciate the reconstruction scenes than his younger fellow jurist. But even he was several times disturbed by the stage ladies' inquiries as to his identity. Attorney General Burford was visibly affected, and seemed to notice closely the love making scene between "Uncle Nels" and "Aunt Eve." He blushed horribly when Nelson attempted to adjust the "red sash." This scene also affected Mr. Justice Tipton, as he was heard to remark just as the curtain fell: "May it please your honors, I am glad that scene is over, for it was just about to run me mad."
